Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I.

It is very difficult to please every body. Grumblers are always to be found. We thought the whole civilized world was crying out unanimously for additional postal communication; we could not postal communication; we could not have believed that any individual (except Colonel SISTHORPE could be found. north, east, west, or south, to object to frequent intercourse and accelerated intelligence. But we were wrong. There is a SIBTHORPE in the east, disguised as the 1 d tor of the China Mail. Hear

The Directors of the P. and O. have sent in-structions to their Superintend, at in China for earlying into effect their new contract with Government; and, according to the Comcarrying into effect their new contract with Government; and, according to the Company's advertisements in to-day's paper, it appears, that we are really to be prestered with two English mails a month,—the one to start from Hongkong on the 11th, and the other on the 28th, and from England on, we suppose, the 4th, and the 26th; both ways touching at Galle. We were in hopes there might be truth in the rumour that the Directors had taken advantage of the general ignorance of Oriental geography, to palm off the present Calcutta and China steamer as a second English and China mail. B t since it appears that we are to have two bond fide English mails, it would be some slight satisfaction to know who advased the arrangement—certainly not the foreign community in China, amingst whom we are not aware there is one who desired or who does not deprecate the "additional facility." In this felling the Wx of the China Mail fully symputhises, although the arrangement is one more likely to benefit newspapers than any thing else.—China Mail, December 16.

Peatered with two English mails a month.

Pestered with two English mails a month, quotha! Our contemporary seems to have imbibed Celestial notions with a vengeance. We take leave to doubt. however, whether there is not one of the foreign community in China who does not deprecate the "additional facility." editor's remarks be founded in truth, we can only regret that our countrymen should have been so str ngely converted to barbarism. We have littly porary's troubles are far more likely to be multiplied than to be diminished. Two rnglish mails a month! What will he say to one a week, which he will soon have, if there be any faith to be placed in "caloric" and Captain Enrecson?

(FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.)

(FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.)
London, October 20, 1852.

THERE was never before such great misapprehession stising from distance betwen two countries, whose social and commercial interests are so interveven as those of Great Britain and Australia. In your part of the world one of the most wonderful discoveries of this or any age naturally led you to expect certain results in this country. You were deceived; but searcely would you have time to speculate on the causes of your disappointment than what you originally prophecied has come to pass; yet you necessarily remain some months ignorant of the verification of your predictions. We are now receiving accounts which go to show that the extreme of distress was being experienced in the colonies from the actual and prospective want of labour, apparently hastening to that crisis in the derangement of every element of colonial production which first suggested itself to your English friends when they heard of the gold diggings. At the same time we all of us know here of the enormous emigration which suddenly commenced in the course of this year, and which is hastening towards your shores with, let us hope, a full rem dy for the evils, actual and threatened, of your situation, at the date of our last advices. Great interest is felt as to this altered state of things on public opinion in your colony, and as the time approaches for the receipt of intelligence on the subject we are all growing anxious to see the first number of the Herald after you are once London, October 20, 1852. which all books are proposed to be able to the proposed of the subject we are all growing anxious to see the first number of the Head after you are once as the terms of the subject we are all growing anxious to see the first number of the Head after you are once as the terms of the subject we are all growing anxious to see the first number of the Head after you are once as the terms of the subject with the subject with the subject with the subject we are all growing and subject was an all long 162 front, and the foremast level with high the subject with the subject we are all growing anxious to use once as the subject we are all growing and the subject was a wall as an of the subject was and long 162 front, and the subject was and long 162 front, and long 162 front

Esq., M.P.; the Hon. A. Kinn.rd, T. Law Hodges, Esq., M.P.; the Hon. W. Wrottesley, Sir H. Verner. M.P.; G. H. Kingston, Esq. and other influential men in this country; while there were Messrs. Boyd, DeSalis, Hodges, Jackson, Trevelyan, Curninghame, and others more directly connected with the colonies, and who would, naturally and properly, be more influenced by a desire to promote colonial integration. In each survey say, what we all anticipated in this country. Both as regards the land and who would, naturally and properly, be more influenced by a desire to promote colonial interests. By those who know the real objects of this society, and the active exertions made to promote them, there will be no hesitation in awarding it the highest commendation. Dr. Lang, indeed, with the envious spirit which seems peculiar to him, and huffed that the Committee neither sought his support nor heeded his opposition, found it convenient to ignore the objects of the society, and to demounce it for its selfish and aristocratic spirit; but these assaults had no spireciable effect on public opinion, or the society itself. After this came that worthy lady, Mrs. Chisnolm, whose merits are not to be measured by the 1800 or 2000 people she has induced to emigrate under her immediate auspices, and in ships chartered by herself or her committees—useful and important as that contribution was to the colonial populations, and involving as the chartering and despatch of these vessels did the most serious belows and responsibilities. She also has done much to increase the emigrant spirit, not only in England but in Ireland: and to her the great wartis due of ties. She also has done much to increase the emigrant spirit, not only in England but in Ireland; and to her the great merit is due of raising the standard of passages for the poorer classes of emigrants. Besides she has extensively impressed the working classes with the practicability of their raising, by combination and self-denial, the means of paying their own passage money. Lastly the efforts of the mercantile interests at the beginning of the year to moment emigration may ginning of the year to promote emigration may be referred to, as well as the useful exertions be referred to, as well as the useful exertions of the Squatters' committee: so that altogether you will perceive that very much had been done to prepare the public mind for "Emigration to Australia." While then the nuggets undoubteely came in as a climax, it is not to be denied that the previous attacks of your friends in this country, now urging the working classes, now atmulating the energies of the Park-street Commissioners, had considerable weight in producing that stream of emigration, which it is hoped has now set in permanently to the Australian colonies.

The Times has again bren doing good service to the Australian colonies.

The Times has again been doing good service in the Anti-Transportion cause, and lately "improved" the military mutiny at the Ionian islands. Colonel Jebb, the inspector of prisons, whose credit is interested in showing that our penal status quo is perfection, rushed incontinently to the rescue; with the inevitable result of mixing matters worse. The Times knows what it is about, on this as on all other subjects which it once dicides to be deserving of its notice. I ever speak without much conwhat it is about, on this as on all other subjects which it once decides to be deserving of its notice. I ever speak without much confidence on this subject; and I see another notice for a consit is hip "for Port Jackson, or Hobart Town, both or either;" yet I may say that during the last few days I have not been without grounds for believing that Government begins to be fairly posed with the aspect of the colonies on this question, their doubts being much strengthened by some well-timed representations which have been lately made in influential quarters. I cannot but think that Governor La Trobe's views on this question will have weight in the councils of the Governor La Trobe's views on this question will have weight in the councils of the Governor La Trobe's views on this question will have weight in the colonies lately addressed to me: "I am sick," he observed, "of these convict blue books, with their penal polenics. I care not to investigate who is right or who wrong; the thing has got beyond the merit of particular squabbles; it is primifacies an ungracious thing to be erguing with colonies, like a pragmatical old woman, endeavouring to convince them of the propriety of their cherishing a system which provides them, and relieves us, of 4000 of our worst criminals every year. The thing must end, when the colonies declare against it."

when the colonies declare against it."

When on this subject, let me call your attention to a deepatch which has some importance at the present moment, seeing that its author was the present Prime Minister of the Crown. On the 27th June, 1844, the present Earl Derby, then Lord Stanley, and holding the seals of the Colonial Office, thus wrote to Governors Gipps, La Trobe, and Wilmot:—

"Her Majestria Government held it india.

"Her Majesty's Government held it indis-pensable that within the Australian Colonies receptacles should be found for all the convicts and exiles who may be a-nt from this country in execution of judicial sentences. This is so momentous an object of national policy that we can acknowledge no conflicting motive as of suffi-cient importance to superseds it."

These are weights word:

cient importance to supersede it."

These are weighty words; and when the matter is under serious consideration of the present Cabinet, be assured they will be exhumed and made the most of. At the same time, since they were written the case has become altered by Lord Grey's engagements and shuffles, the gold discoveries have been made, and the Australian population has enormously increased. The words I have quoted, however, are important as showing Lord Derby's animum on the general subject of Australian transport-

Reserve or Sales.—Mr. Mort cold, yeaterday, at his rooms, the stations of "Wambung-ion," and for the castle, to Durit Jone, Kip 166. Reserved to the gold diggings. Many influences had been at work for some years past, similaring the first of the castle, to Durit Jone, Kip 166. Reserved to the gold diggings. Many influences had been at work for some years past, similaring the British public to Australian emigration; and I think that, the gold dispose to the present year. I do not think it fair to refer it altogether to the gold diggings. Many influences had been at work for some years past, similaring the provided proposition of the present year. I do not think it fair to refer it altogether to the gold diggings. Many influences had been at work for some years past, situation with a rapidity quite unprecedented in any personal past of the present of the content of the present o world importance.

The exultation felt in the colony at Lord Grey's departure from the Colonial Office was, I need accreely say, what we all anticipated in this country. Both as regards the land question and transportation, he had shown himself most hostile to colonial interests as regards the latter question, he was beyond all doubt a failkless minister. On the land question we may admit that he evinced an honest though mischievous consistency. Though you have no reason to congratulate yourselveson the geniusor enlightenment of his successor, it has been remarked of him that he has this negative merit at least, that, unlike Lord Grey, the first promptings of his mind are not to give a curt refusal to the petitions of a colony. On the contrary it is thought that his disposition is to conciliate. At the same time you must remember that, thus far, he, and the Government he is associated with, have adopted all Lord Grey's views on the transportation question. Scarcely had the present ministry got well located in their offices, after the re-election of those of them who had seats in the Lower House, than you may recollect the friends of the colony mustered in force at the Colonial Office, when Sir William Molesworth exposed the breach of faith of the departed Government, and manfully laid down the rule that the faithlessness of one Government was fully participated in by its successors who continued the same course of action.

Mr. Westgarth's letter on transportation to Van Diemen's Land, which appears in your number of the 10th June, strikes me as an admirable production full of pertinent facts, set forth in language excellent for its force and cleanness. What he says as to the other colonies being the quarter from which transp restion must receive its death-bluw very much seconds with, as I have before had occasion to observe, the opinions entratained by your friends in this country. The idea is that, with Port Phillip more especially, the language will soon be this—"the your thanks of the mother country." This,

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT .- WEDNESDAY. COMMON LAW JURISDICTION. BEFORE Mr. Justice Dickinson and Mr. Jus tice THERRY.

Mr. BROADMURST, for the defendant, moved upon notice, that the shove case he tried by a special Jury of twelve. By the affidavits filed in support of this motion, it appeared that the action was one on the case to recover damages for alleged unskilful and improper treatment by defendant in his capacity as surgeon. Nice questions as to surgical skill would have, it was stated, to be determined, and a large amount of conflicting surgical testimony would have, for this purpose, to be heard. It was desirable, therefore, that the questions at issue should be submitted to as large a body of educared intelligent men as possible. The plaintiff also, it was stated, being a publican, one of the class of common jurors, had created an interest among that class which would affect their capacity to give the case a fair and impartial trial.

Mr. Firshum, for the plaintiff, contended that no case had been made out to support this application. There was nothing to be determined which could not be as well determined by the plain good sense of a common jury as by any number of special jurors that could be yot together. The argument as to the prevalence of excitement among the class of common jurors, rested upon a bare assertion, unsupported by any collateral testimony what.

jurors, rested upon a bare assertion, unsup-ported by any collateral testimony what-ever, and no cognizance could be taken ever, and no cognizance could be taken of it.

Their Honora granted the application without reference to the several positions of the parties themselves. It was sufficient to say that the nature of the questions which had to be decided rendered it necessary that as large an amount of intelligence as was procurable should be devoted to their determination.

Motion granted; costs to abide the event.

M.N.DIRVALL moved that the above case be tried by a special jury of twelve. The action was one for assault, the plaintiff being a gentleman of independent fortune, resident in Bydney, and the defendant the proprietor of the Baths in the Domain. The argument was that by special jurors only could the degree of injury sustained by a person in plaintiff saltuation be correctly estimated.

M. STEPREN, for the defendant, opposed the motion, contending that as the case would, under ordinary circumstances, be disposed of by four special jurors, the plaintiff could reasonably ask for no more. The jurors could be of the class of which he claimed to be a member, and four of them could just as well determine the amount of damages as a larger number; particularly as the nature of the action was stated upon affidavit to be such as rendered it more fit to be determined by the Court of Requests than by the superior tribunal.

The Court held that four special Jurors pire. Besides this notice by the landlord, which was in the nature of a declaration to bring the matter within the jurisdiction of the magistrates, these was the ordinary notice to quit. This, although before the Court below, was not now produced, and its non-production was relied upon as allording an answer to this present objection, finantisel, as it might, it produced, have cured that objection.

The objection chiefly rested upon however was, the alleged admission by the magistrates of improper and irrelevant evidence. The evidence thus objected to was, as to the sayings and doings of the late John Walpole Ireland, the person under whom Matthews claimed as purchaser, Matthews having in fact based his claims upon an alleged attornment to himself. The object of this evidence was to show that, although the rent had been paid monthly, the tenancy was in reality a weekly one. But evidence of the same nature was gone into by Crisp, to show that his holding from Ireland was not a weekly but an annual or a monthly holding. It was consequently urged_that he had by these means adopted the evidence alluded to, and made it, in fact, his own. The alleged attornment to Matthews, which had been relied upon by the latter, was a pyment of £3 for four weeks' rent, at the rate of fifteen shillings per week. Matthews however expressly disclaimed any personal knowledge as to the original terms of Crisp's holding, and it was argued that, under these circumstances, the mere payment of rent proved nothing.

BATHURST CIRCUIT COURT. Monday, FREEVARY 28.
Befous His Honor the Chief Justice.

Berons His Honor the Chira Justics,

CATTLE STEALING.

J ha Cody was indicted for having, on the 21st of October last, at Brown's Creek, stolen one ox, the property of Michael Neal. In a second count the prisoner was charged with receiving the ox well-knowing it to have been stolen. There were other counts in the information laying the property in John N.al. in mation laying the property in John N.al, in Michael Neal, and John Tiernan, in the Queen, and in some person unknown.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty.
Mr. Holroyd appeared as counsel, and Mr. Sergeant as attorney for the prisoner.
It appeared from the evidence that the prisoner lived with James Kennedy and his wife, the latter being the prisoner's saster. On the 20th of October, Mr. Millar, a butcher, at Carcoar, went to Kennedy's and purchased a builock for £1. This beast was derivered by the prisoner's father to Mr. Millar on the following day. Shortly afterwards, and on the same day, Millar saw the prisoner and Kennedy, a d asked the former for a receipt, which Kennedy wrote out for a bullock branded JK, being the brand of Kennedy. In the course of the afternoon Mrs. Neal saw the prisoner, and charged him with having sold one of her bullocks to Millar. This he denied, and accompanied her to Millar's, where they saw the hide, prisoner still persisting that the beast had belonged to his family, though he stated to Mrs. Neal he would pay her for the beast, the subject of the prosecution, was said to have been branded JS unside down, but it beast, the subject of the prosecution, was said to have been branded JS upside down, but it to have been branded JS upside down, but it was admitted by the witnesses that the brand was very indistinct, and could not be seen until the hair had been removed. There was evidence that the beast formerly belonged to John Spellman, who died the end of fast June, and left a will which had not yet been proved. Mr. Honorov submitted to the Court that none of the counts in the information could be sustained, as it did not appear to whom the property belonged.

His Honor said he should leave the case to the jury on the counts laying the property in he Queen.

Mr. Holsoyn addressed the jury for the

Mr. Holnoyn addressed the jury for the prisoner, and pointed out the great difficulty which most of the witnesses alleged they had had in discovering the brand of the beast.

His Hoxon having told the jury that there were doubts in the case from the indistinctness of the brand, they, after an absence of a few minutes, returned a verdict of not guilty.

minutes, returned a verdict of not gunty.

MURDEM.

Thomas Duffy was indicated for the wilful murder of Thomas Heneghan, at Tambarcora, on the 9th of November last.

The prinoner pleased not guilty.

Mr. Holroyd appeared as counsel and Messry. Home and Wadeson as attorneys for the prinoner.

The prisoner and the deceased had been on good terms for years. On the 19th of November they had been drinking together and were the worse for liquor. Mrs. Heneghan endeavoured to persaude her husband to leave off drinking, when he struck her and a woman named Glide, with whom the prisoner cohabited, having take Mrs. Heneghan's part; the deceased abused Glide and dragged her out of the tent by the hair of her head. Prisoner said nothing at the time, but went out of the tent of the deceased, and in four hours returned, when he said to deceased, "Now, I'll have it out of you." The deceased answered, "As soon as you like." Prisoner went to his tent, and got a bayonet fixed on a stick, which was used to though there was no doubt the deceased had come to his death by the hands of the prisoner, yet as the deceased had first struck the pri-soner, the probability was that, smarting under the pain, and being frantic from passion, he had unconaciously inflicted the injuries which would reduce the crime from murder to man-

His Hoxon having summed up with great minuteness, and explained to the Jury the difference between murder and man-laughter, they retired for a few minutes and found the they retired for a few minutes and found the prisoner guilty of murder.

His Honon ordered sentence of death to be recorded against the prisoner, intimating that he should recommend to the Governor-General that the punishment of death should be forgone in consideration of the prisoner being worked upon the roads or public works of the colony for the term of ten years.

being worked upon the roads or public works of the colony for the term of ten years.

HORSE STRALING.

James Kennedy and Edward Wedge were indicted for having on the lat July last, at Coombing, stolen one horse, the property of Thomas Icely. In a second count the prisoners were charged with receiving the horse, well-knowing it to have been stolen.

The prisoners pleaded not guilty.

Mr. HOROVO appeared as counsel, and Mr. Serjeant as attorney for the prisoners.

It appeared from the evidence that a horse belonging to Mr. Icely was missed from his run at Coombing more than twelve months ago, and about that time he was seen in the yard of the prisoner Kennedy. In the month of November last, John Cody, the brother-in-law of Kennedy, having got into trouble, sent an authority to Kennedy to sell his horses and cattle, and amongst them was the horse in question. This horse was branded M on the off shoulder, MC on the off neck, and JB over J on the near shoulder, and Kennedy sold it, together with another horse, to Maroney. In January last, one William Connor who rejoices in the name of "Terrible Billy," got into trouble, and was fined £6 for an assau't, with the alternative in default of payment of two months' imprisonment. Mrs. Kennedy and Wedge were witnesses against Connor, and the latter subsequently threatened "to block the two of them' for not paying his fine. It was attempted to be shown on the part of the Crown that Mr Icely's brand, I on the off shoulder, had been covered with the M, and two small numbers on the near shoulder had been covered by the JS over J brand. Connor, whilst in the book up.

Prisoner said not the deceased, and in four hours returned, when he said to deceased, "Now, I'll have it out of you." The deceased answered, "As soon as you like." Prisoner went to his tent, and got a bayonet fixed on a stick, whilst the deceased procured a stick whilst the deceased procured a stick which was used to stir the fire. They met between the two tents, when the deceased struck the first blow, and drew blood. The prisoner then wounded the deceased with the bayonet in two or three places, one of the wounds being inflicted in the left eye, and a portion of the bone driven into the brain. The unfortunate man died almost instantaneously.

Mr. Holboyn, for the prisoner, said, though there was no doubt the deceased indecome to his death by the hands of the prisoner; the actual the first struck the rife of the colony, without reference to the quarter from whence it might emanate, to promote the form whence it might emanate, to promote the from whence it might emanate, to promote the form whence it might emanate to the colony whence it might emanate to the colony whence it might emanate to the colony wh the interests and loster the minute more the colony, without reference to the quarter from whence it might emanate, to promote the improvement of the means of communication, and to reform the municipality. Mr. Parkes then referred to some written questions on religious points which had been forwarded to him by post, answering them in the same sense as he had done on the previous occasion. He was cordially cheered at the conclusion of his address, and a Ward Committee was formed. Between 70 and 80 persons were present.

The position occupied by this run is first-rate; it is situated only thirty miles from Gundagai, the chief dept for the deliveries of stock for Port Phillip and the Ovens, and within a short distance of the rich diggings of the Tumut and other Southern Gold Fields. Its locality gives it an immense advantage, there being a ready market at all times (independent of what has hitherto been its chief market, Sydney) for its store sheep and fast stock, and at prices highly remunerative. Adgenbilly is in itself valuable also as a good fattening station, being abundantly watered and grassed, and its improvements are most complete—indeed, for a person of active business habits, it will afford a delightful family home, with a pursuit attached by which he grapes, growing in great luxuriance and abundance.

The supply of good water is superabundant, and obtained from a covered Well in the garden. Below the garden is a paddock, which would either serve to keep a cow or horse, or could be converted into a good garden, the soil being rich.

This Cottage let some years back for £60 ayear: since which great additions and improvements have been made, another storey having been built, new floors laid, and the well dug, at a det of £200, and which now could not be done for double the money. It is well suited to the wants of a small family of respectability.

After which,

house.

The rooms are lofty, and well finished, having panelled cedar doors, deep skirtings, good mantel-pieces, &c. The two front rooms are fitted with grates, and the walls oil painted, as is likewise the Hall.

The Verandah is 37 feet long, and is furnished with French lights, Venetian blinds, &c.

The Verandah is 37 feet long, and is furnished with French lights, Venetian blinds, &c.

In front of the house is a Garden, and a good paddock fenced in with palings
There is also a fowl-house, covered Weil, and a good quarry of White Stone admirably suited for building purposes.

A black lead mine was opened some years ago on the ground, and a quantity sent home to England. The result was remunerative, but the owner was not permitted to work it further. The spot where the lode is situate can be pointed out.

The Cottage is now let at a nominal rent and will be sold subject to the tenant's lease, which has about 15 months to run.

It formerly let for £100 a year.

The above eligible property is distant from the city only a few minutes' ride by steamer from Circular Quay to Milsom's Point, and thence a short valk will bring one to the residence of Mr. Bray, who will have the pleasure to show the various allotments to parties favouring him with a cell.

The auctioneer would add, that a more favoured spot for the erection of villa residences could not be found in the vicinity of the metropolis.

The surrounding scenery is beautifully picdences could not be found in the vicinity of the metropolis.

The surrounding scenery is beautifully picturesque, the marine views extremely delightful, the neighbourhood highly respectable, and the locality healthy. It is about a quarter of an hours walk from the church.

To do full justice to the merits of the property the limits of an advertisement will not admit. To be appreciated it must be seen. It may be remarked, however, that it will positively be sold; and it is hoped that on the day of sale its advantages will be estimated by the liberal bids of intending purchasers.

For further particulars apply to the Auctioneers; or Mr. Bray, North Shore.

All that well-built and right substantial property, finished as it is in the very best style, possess. d of most ample accommodation for both man and horse, and known as THE CHIPPENDALE HOTEL.

These premises are 144inch brick work, of the best description, with slated roofs, and contain 12 rooms, independent of a roomy and well fitted up bar and cellar underneath. There is also excellent kitchen at the rear (accessible by covered way from the house,) with good servants' room over. There is private entrance from Bank-street to the house, and carriage entrance also—the latter leading into a spacious yard, with outlet to Middle-street. The outhouses consist of a brick-built four-stalled stable, with coach house attached, over the whole of which is a lofty hay loft. There is wash house and two water closets, an excellent brick-built workshop—this latter, as also the coach house and stables, could be easily converted into several good dwellings; and there is land to build or improve upon besides. There is also capital well of water.

It must not be forgotten that this property is within a couple of hundred yards of the ground upon which the Railway Company's work-sheds will be erected for the Sydney terminus; and further, that the opening of Abercrombie-street, from Parramatta-street, now in course of arrangement, will greatly increase the traffic of Bank-street, and consequently add most materially to the value of this property.

The whole of the Estate is enclosed. About four hundred acres (400 acres) cleared and subdivided into piddocks for cultivation or grazing. The premises are large and commodious. The Cottage is a very substantial brick building, containing eight good-sized lofty rooms (drawing room, 30 x14, dining hall, 30 x 12, the others in proportion). The building faces the east, and has a verandah on three sides, nine feet wide. The out-buildings are numerous, and very complete, consisting of brick kitches in proportion). The buildings are numerous, and very complete, consisting of brick kitches millaundry, and servant's-room, brick dairy, partry and stores. New brick stables, with coach-house, harness and servants' room, and good loft, which have been receted within the last two years at a cost of £300 (three hundred pounde); also six-stalled stable for farm horses, including a good box, milking shed and calf-pen, with granary above, 40 x 26 feet; new barn, with cartable; two shingled Cottages for farm servants, strong well-built stockyards, pig run and styce complete. The Garden contains I see, all well trenched and planted with a waiety of finit trees and choice vines.

It was the original intention of the proprister only to have leased this desirable property for the period he might be absent from the colony, but the uncertainty of the time of his return has induced him to come to the determination of submitt months with bank interest added, and the re-sidue can remain for a term of years upon security of the property, at six per cent. For further particulars respecting the estate, and for cards to view, apply to the auctionser; and with reference to title to Henry Burton Bradley, Esq., Solicitor, Lyons'-buildings, George-street.
